Inside Out games

Matching – You can play this two ways. Either with the words on one side and the characters on the other, or two character card decks. We played it both ways!

Go “Inside Out” – The last way we played it was like Go Fish, but we called it “Go Inside Out” You can print off however many set of the cards you want and then decided how many makes a match, whether it’s two or four. We had four kids playing and only four card sets printed. Then they pick 3 cards and then had to ask around for a match. We played that you only take one turn no matter what.

Pick the Emotion – The kids put all six cards in front of them. I used this list of emotions and randomly called out an emotion. I didn’t play this competitively, but I guess you could play it so that whoever had the emotion card up first got a point. We just played that you grabbed the card and then had to make the facial expression to describe the emotion. The kids thought it was pretty funny!

You could also use the cards and take pictures of you child using that emotion. Example: Disgust: What do they think is disgusting? Have them think of that and then take their picture.
